IN the days when the good old King Arthur was able to feast knights each day at his famous Round Table, There lived in a cottage it matters not where, Indeed I do not know, and I'm sure you do not care A thrifty young farmer; and he and his wife Knew little of trouble, and nothing of strife. It happened one day that the lady felt sad, And she cried, Oh, I wish that a baby I had! Have your wish then! a voice from her pocket replied. Up went both her hands and her eyes opened wide, And out of her pocket a fairy arose, In what shape or form there is no one who knows, But just as her handkerchief fell to the ground, She heard in her pocket another strange sound Mamma! dear mamma! see see I have come, Just the length and the thickness of dear papa's thumb! Mamma said, How charming I now we are so blest; But, child, you'll take cold, you have come quite undrest. From those pea-pods the stuff for a coat you can choose; Two pips of this apple will make you nice shoes; And if a good boy you will promise to be, Knickerbockers I'll scrape from that carrot, you see. Just then to the cottage the fairy queen came; And said to the lady, Your boy I will name.
